We primarily receive personal data directly from you when you contact us, request information, negotiate or enter into a contract, or communicate with us during the business relationship. Where permitted by law, we may also receive relevant information from your employer, colleagues, affiliated companies, public registers, professional networks or other publicly accessible sources.

6. Recipients of Personal Data

Within STABL Energy GmbH, access is limited to departments and people who need the data to take pre-contractual measures, perform the contract, meet legal obligations or pursue the legitimate interests described above. This may include Sales, Procurement, Project Management, Finance, Legal, responsible business teams and authorized decision-makers.

We may engage service providers under data processing agreements, particularly for IT, communication, customer relationship management, accounting and business administration. We otherwise disclose personal data outside the company only where permitted or required by law, necessary for pre-contractual measures or contract performance, or covered by your consent. Recipients may include external tax advisers, public authorities, financial service providers, logistics or transport providers, legal advisers and courts, where relevant.

Where a transfer occurs, we comply with Chapter V GDPR and provide information about the applicable transfer mechanism and safeguards.

8. Retention Period

We process and retain personal data for the duration of the business relationship and as necessary to initiate, perform and complete contractual arrangements. We may retain data beyond this period to comply with statutory retention and documentation duties, including obligations under German commercial and tax law, generally for two to ten years, and for the applicable limitation periods, which are generally three years but may extend to thirty years in certain cases.

GDPR, you may object at any time under Art. 21 GDPR on grounds relating to your particular situation. We will then cease processing unless compelling legitimate grounds override your interests, rights and freedoms, or processing is necessary to establish, exercise or defend legal claims. Where we process personal data for direct marketing based on legitimate interests, you may object at any time; we will then cease processing the data for that purpose, including related profiling.

To exercise your rights, please contact STABL Energy GmbH at info@stabl.com or the Data Protection Officer using the details above.
